Kazakhstan and the new geopolitical configuration in Central Asia

In the context of the Republic of Kazakhstan President's Message, the Leader of the Nation Nursultan Nazarbayev, to the people of Kazakhstan "Strategy "Kazakhstan-2050": a new policy of an established state" addressed key issues in the geopolitical situation in Central Asia and Kazakhstan's role in the new configuration of the region. Particular emphasis is placed on the development of innovative research at the University, especially the activities of the "National Security of Kazakhstan" scientific school. The article presents the urgency of communication platform "G-Global", aimed at multilateralism in international relations, which has become one of the key mechanisms for addressing a range of issues, particularly issues of international and regional security. For example, the use of multilateral mechanisms has become a means of neutralizing the conflict in preventive diplomacy. There has been illustrated the use of multilateral approaches as a way to create symmetry in the various balances: economic, political, military, and others.

Keywords: an established state, the new policy, communication platform, Central Asia, Kazakhstan, geopolitics.
